

ARM has changed to Revolution Multimedia

Trading since 1984 as ARM Audio Services we have an excellent reputation for delivery, value for money and expertise.

From our unique approach to customer care, to our supply of various technical equipment and technical skills we offer a service that was much more than our name suggested.

Also, having been at the forefront of many technological changes since 1984, we knew how much the market had grown and changed since ARM's inception.

So we began the search for a new name and identity to reflect who we truly were and to reflect the wide range of services we offer to our customers.

The name 'Revolution Multimedia' was chosen because it is our mission statement – we're about revolutionising the process of getting the best audio/visual equipment and services for your business, home or organisation. It also links back, rather neatly to our original name.

We hope you enjoy the new look and we hope that you choose to benefit from the full range of our services.
